HEALTH FOR THE JOB

At Jolly Farmer we all have to work hard. In order to do this, one has to be in a reasonable state of good health. In order to prevent accidents and injuries, or the re-aggravation of previous injuries, we have outlined below the following questions, in order to determine your qualifications.

PLEASE ANSWER THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS:YES*NO

Work duties at Jolly Farmer can require bending over benches, occasionally lifting up to 50 pounds, pushing trollies all day long, all of which require a good strong back and good health. Are these working conditions acceptable to you?

If you had to do a job that involved standing on your feet all day, would this be a problem?

Most of the jobs at Jolly Farmer require an alert mind and good co-ordination. Would this be a problem for you?

If you had job duties that involved extended activity with your arms and wrists, would this be a problem for you?

Many jobs at Jolly Farmer involve being able to read instructions. Would this be a problem for you?

Working in a greenhouse operation requires being able to see clearly, and with detail. Is there anything that would prevent you from seeing clearly?

As we have plants, flowers, and related items, some people can have allergic reactions to such things. Do you see this as being a problem for you?

There are some greenhouses that contain bees for pollination, could this be a problem for you?

If any of the issues mentioned above could create a problem for you, please give details below:

AGREEMENT

I agree that the above health information is correct. I consent for the information in this application to be used by Jolly Farmer for employment purposes.
